What is a metaphor for life

Something went wrong. Wait a moment and try again. What is life to you? Check out these metaphors about life to get the perspective of others. The meaning of life is often a vague and challenging concept for people to understand. The changes and challenges that make up everyday human existence are complex, and life experiences can feel challenging to put into words. Many of the most famous life quotes are also metaphors about life, comparing everyday life to something a bit less abstract. Metaphors are figures of speech that compare concepts with a unique perspective. Great metaphors get people to stop and think, and common metaphors become part of the culture of the community. They can be funny, deep, inspiring and thought-provoking. Do you want to use metaphors about life in your writing or speech? Here are some of the most famous metaphors of life for your consideration. 20 Metaphors About Life from Culture, Literature, and Famous Thinkers One of the best ways to understand life metaphors is to study metaphor examples that compare life to everything from nature to common objects. As you consider daily life, see if one of these metaphors fits. Sometimes, metaphors use humor to teach a lesson. Here are some funny metaphors about life and its lessons: 1. Money Henry David Thoreau once said, "The cost of a thing is the amount of what I will call life which is required to be exchanged for it, immediately or in the long run." This quote shows that your own life has value, even monetary value, and you must count that value when evaluating how you will spend your life. 2. Box of Chocolates "Life is like a box of chocolates. You never know what you're gonna get." You don't have to have watched Forrest Gump to recognize one of the movie's most iconic quotes. It implies that life is unexpected and can be sweet at the same time. 3. Onions Life is kind of like an onion Peeling the layers of an onion helps you discover newness with each layer. Life is kind of like an onion. You might shed some tears as you peel back the layers, but you'll also find something new and fresh. 4. Theater Stage In the play As You Like It, Jacques, a character William Shakespeare created, says "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players." This quote metaphorically compares real life to the experiences of actors on a stage. 5. Song Hans Christian Andersen once said, "Life is like a beautiful melody, only the lyrics are messed up." As we go through life, it can feel as though we are simply trying to get the words right to a song that we can hear, but can't quite grasp. 6. Roller Coaster Life is like a roller coaster. It is full of thrills, peaks (highs) and valleys (lows). One minute you're soaring to the heights, and the next you're crashing down to the ground, but in the end, you have a great time with the experience. Some metaphors about life and the life lessons we all must learn are a bit deeper than these funny ones. 7. Bucket List The term "bucket list" applies to the things that someone wants to experience before they "kick the bucket," or die. The bucket also symbolizes life because you have the choice to fill it with the things that matter most to you. 8. Ocean Sometimes, life is calm and inviting. Other times, it feels like a raging tempest. This back-and-forth makes the ocean a great metaphor for the realities and challenges of life. 9. Novel You're the author of your own story. If you've ever been told this, then you are listening to the metaphor that life is a novel. Every new experience is a new page or chapter in the story of your life. 10. Maze or Labyrinth In Looking for Alaska, John Green states, "You spend your whole life stuck in the labyrinth, thinking about how you'll escape it one day, by you never od it. You just use the future to escape the present." In this quote, he compares life to the twist, turns and dead-ends of a maze. Sometimes, metaphors about life are less thought-provoking and more inspirational, encouraging you to live life with gusto. Here are some of those. 11. Stained Glass Window If you have ever looked closely at a stained glass window, all you saw was a bunch of bright colors, and it is not until you step back that you get the full picture of what the window conveys. Life is like that too. Sometimes we can't see the big picture of our own life until we step back and get perspective. 12. A Mountain Climb Life has challenges, and tackling those challenges can feel like climbing a mountain. You sometimes go through deep valleys, but you also get to have mountain-top experiences, and this combination makes the struggle rewarding. 13. A Classroom Albert Einstein once said, "Any fool can know. The point is to understand." In a way, he is comparing life to the classroom and the desire to understand what it all means. 14. War Life can sometimes feel like a series of battles. While you win some, and you lose some, with hard work and dedication you can win the whole war. 15. Stepping Stones As you go through life, picture yourself on a path made of stepping stones. You won't want to linger too long on any one part of the path, and eventually, you will get to something bigger, but the stones that line the way help you get there. Finally, many of the best metaphors about life get you to stop and think about how you are using yours and what choices you are making. Many of these come from literature because life changes are popular topics of poets and writers. 16. Divergent Paths Robert Frost wrote, "Two roads diverged in a wood, and I, I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference." In this quote, he compares his life and its choices to a fork in the road, and how choosing the less-traveled path made his life richer. 17. Journey In her poem "Because I Could Not Stop for Death," Emily Dickinson compares life to a journey complete with a carriage ride. This metaphor is easy to understand because we all feel we are on a journey and the end of that journey is the same for all people, it's how we spend the journey that matters. 18. Canvas We are all artists and our life is the canvas. We get to decide how we cover it in paint. 19. Star Life is like a star because each star has its place in the sky, just as each life has its place in the human experience. We can shine bright or we can dim depending on our life choices, but we are always there. 20. A Game of Chess In chess, players must always think about their next move and where it will take them. Life is similar. Metaphors about life make you stop and think. They can give you a greater perspective on how you spend your days, and they can help give greater meaning to even the mundane parts of life. As you study these metaphor examples, try to think of some of your own. Discover what life is like to you, and then weave that metaphor into your writing. Want more? Read our guide to metaphor examples from literature. A metaphor about life compares life to something more tangible. Some famous ones include:1. Life is like a box of chocolates2. Two roads diverged in a wood and I, I took the one less traveled by.3. The roller coaster of life CC0/rawpixel/Pixabay Life insurance is something most people have at least heard of, but not everyone understands who should get it and what it's actually for. Contrary to what you might expect, life insurance isn't just for the elderly. Instead, it's a guarantee for your loved ones that they'll have the financial resources they need in the event of your death. While the specifics can vary from plan to plan, you're paying to ensure the well-being of the people you leave behind, whether that happens today or decades from now.From Lincoln Heritage to MetLife to Erie Insurance, there are many life insurance providers to choose from, each with their own range of plans and options to choose from. Between the range of choices and the prospect of dealing with your own mortality, making sense of life insurance can seem like a daunting task. However, it doesn't have to be. With a bit of basic information, you'll be prepared to decide for yourself if life insurance is right for you and your family.Understanding the Different Kinds of Life InsuranceLife insurance plans in the United States are usually divided into term and permanent policies. A term policy lasts for a set period of time, such as 10 or 20 years. If the insured individual dies while the policy is in effect, the beneficiary receives a payment from the insurance company. Term insurance has the benefit of usually being cheaper than permanent insurance with equivalent benefits.Photo Courtesy: Don Bartlett/Getty Images Permanent insurance — which also includes whole life, variable life and universal life insurance — combines a death benefit with some form of cash savings. Part of the premium covers the cost of the insurance, while the rest is set aside and earns interest. Generally speaking, you can withdraw that amount early or let it ride for a much larger sum upon your death. You may also be able to borrow money against the policy or use it to pay for future premiums.If You Have Dependents, You Need Life InsuranceThe most common reason for needing life insurance is if you have dependents: people who depend on you financially, such as children, a spouse that doesn't work or a parent who you support. At the very least, a life insurance policy can cover the costs of your final expenses, such as the cost of a burial or cremation, funeral and outstanding debts, which in turn keeps those things from burdening your family.Photo Courtesy: Chris Hondros/Getty Images With a better policy, you can also provide money to cover a mortgage, education, or other large expenses that could be too much to manage with the loss of your income otherwise. If used wisely, life insurance is the final way of providing for those you care about.Determining Your Life Insurance NeedsSome people shy away from life insurance policies because they think they can't afford them. While the best plans can definitely be expensive, cheaper plans are available, especially if you're comfortable with a term policy.Photo Courtesy: Sean Gallup/Getty Images Other factors also affect how much life insurance will cost. Smokers and individuals with serious health conditions can expect to pay more for their policies, while younger people and women tend to have lower premiums than older adults and men. In fact, the premium for a plan that has coverage of $250,000 can cost less than $200 per year depending on your demographic and the plan you select.Finding Affordable Life InsuranceThe level of life insurance coverage you need changes over time. When you're young and have no spouse or children, you may not need a policy because no one is counting on your income. The same is true for individuals with adult children and those who have enough money in savings to cover their loved ones' expenses.Photo Courtesy: Lars Baron/Getty Images Another consideration is when to buy a life insurance policy. Some people wait until they marry or have children. Others purchase a guaranteed renewable policy before they have dependents. This type of policy ensures they will always have coverage as long as they pay the premiums on time.Either way, buying one when you're younger and healthier is usually cheaper than waiting until you're closer to needing one, even if you end up spending money on a policy you likely won't need. The right time for you to buy one will ultimately depend on your personal financial and health situation. How to Find a PolicyThere are plenty of online tools that can evaluate your insurance needs and help you choose a policy that works for you. Some are run by individual insurance companies, such as this one from Guardian Life, while others are maintained by independent sources.Photo Courtesy: Tim Boyle/Getty Images Alternatively, you can also seek out an expert who understands the industry and available products to help you make an informed decision. Insurance agents, estate planning lawyers and tax professionals can help you navigate the many life insurance policies and providers out there. They can explain the pros and cons of life insurance and help you find the perfect policy for your situation. MORE FROM ASKMONEY.COM
